Dear Sir: ~~Mr.~~

Your letter of March 19, saying you had sent the book of your Spanish Songs, received, and I have waited until now hoping the ~~songs~~ would arrive. They have not come and I fear have been lost in the mails.

We have several musicians in our family, and if they are what I believe them to be shall want other copies. However I wish to see them first, and regret there has been this trouble for you and delay for me.

Yours very sincerely,

Grace W. Trout

Dear Madam:

In response to your letter of April 9th, saying that you have not yet received the Song Book you ordered, and paid for, Jan. 28th, I am sending you, under another cover, a duplicate book today, which I trust will reach you without further delay.

Shall be interested in hearing from the other musicians in your family, and shall be glad to fill further orders from you if the book meets with your approval.

It might interest you to know that I expect to issue a Second Book, containing 14 other Spanish Songs of Old California in a few weeks, and have already received many advance orders for this volume from all over the country.

With regrets for the delay in receipt of my First Book, and with best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

My dear Mrs. Trout:

I am glad that both books have reached you, and that you will find a welcome for both. Thank you for check for the extra copy.

I have been deeply gratified to find that I was not mistaken in my belief that there are enough people, even in this grinding and jostling age, who still retain the humanity to appreciate real Folksong, no matter of what country. It is beautiful and worth while in every land - tho to me - and I think to more than the average - there is a certain fascination and enchantment about the Folksong of Spanish blood more than about that of any other nationality. This first book is now in its 6th thousand and selling steadily - tho I have no commercial avenues.

I hope to issue the Second Book next month - and will certainly send you a circular announcing it.

Thank you and with best wishes, I am

Sincerely Yours,
